

ABSTRACT

Materials for filling cavities in the body are disclosed which have very high viscosity when in the cavity and a lower viscosity when being delivered to the cavity.